

NSTA Membership

Membership in NSTA delivers all the best professional development and resources a science educator needs. You'll be rewarded with renewed confidence and competence in your teaching, a vast network of colleagues online and face-to-face upon which to rely, as well as saving time and money as you advance your teaching career.

Becoming the Best Science Teacher You Can Be

Members select one or more of the idea-packed, peer-reviewed journals designed for all grade levels. Content-rich archives of past journal issues, even ones you don't subscribe to, are available free to members:

- Science and Children—(grades K–6)
- The Science Teacher—(grades 9–12)
- Science Scope—(grades 6–9)
- Journal of College Science Teaching

NSTA offers a wealth of professional development opportunities that support and enhance the journal content. Live Web Seminars, self-paced learning through the NSTA Learning Center, and more will help you become the best science teacher you can be.

Staying Informed

NSTA Reports — A quick-read newspaper that covers the latest science-teaching news and informs teachers about resources and opportunities (North America only)

E-Newsletters — Weekly and monthly bulletins that consolidate the latest news and information from NSTA. Choose among general information, grade-specific e-newsletters focusing on a single curriculum topic or created for elementary school principals.

NSTA Press® — Over 200 titles designed to develop the science educator's knowledge and expertise. Each year, we add 20-25 new books, and Members receive a 20 percent discount on Press titles (10 percent on other titles). Visit the Science Store, request a catalog, or call 800-277-5300.

SciLinks — More than 15,000 vetted science web pages are at your fingertips. Real-time data and new content on a host of science topics is accessible by linking to a brief note found in the margin of many textbooks and NSTA journals. Using your member ID will give you entry even if your textbook is not SciLinks-enabled!
